

Eco-logical

Wealden boutique

Aptly named, Pants to Poverty created their ethical, 100% sweatshop-free, underwear collection using fairtrade, organic cotton. Visit their online store through www.pantstopoverty.com

Bomb Cosmetics use recycled packaging wherever possible. Check out their tantalising selection of good-enough-to-eat bath blasters, cocoa butter melts, handmade soaps and aromatherapy oils. Good Night Honey (above) features skin calming and soothing bergamot and chamomile oils, £1.99.

www.bombcosmetics.co.uk

Chocolate Couture's unique, handcrafted wedding bands are individually made using recycled 18 carat gold or palladium 950. Made to order, they are available from www.ecochiccollection.co.uk

Lucy Russell Organics, based in Robertsbridge, creates products which are over 98% organic and certified by The Soil Association. Shown above is The Cleansing Balm, £24, The Facial Serum, £28, and The Rose Toner, £18. Lucy also offers a range of treatments, which are the first and only certified organic treatments in the country, including The Facial (75 mins, £72), The Mini Facial (45 mins, £40) and The Back Facial (40 mins, £38). Tel 0845 094 2227 www.lucyrussellorganics.co.uk

This voluminous puff sleeve shirt is made from organic cotton poplin by Assisi Garments, set up by Franciscan nuns to provide employment for deaf, mute and poor women considered unfit for marriage by their families. £65 (also available in white) www.ecochiccollection.co.uk

The Waitrose Foundation is a partnership created to help improve the lives of the farm workers who grow and pick the store's South African fruits. Below is the Foundation's Cederberg Shiraz, £5.69 per bottle from WaitroseWineDirect. www.waitrosewine.com

Blackberry Winter is a new range of unique and earth-friendly handmade jewellery by Kent designer Helen Brooks. Her Signature Pendant (above) is made from hand-felted purple beads with white flecks and strung on a navy ribbon, fastened with a vintage mother-of-pearl button. £18. www.blackberrywinter.co.uk

WT